

Leadership Reflection: you as a collaborator

We all have dynamics we focus on more naturally, or those that take more work. This means we will leave a particular kind of footprint on teams that will sometimes be amazing and sometimes be challenging. If we want to become more rounded and adaptable collaborators, we want to develop self knowledge and to put our attention on the dynamics you sometimes neglect. Score yourself on the chart below and then have a discussion with someone who knows you well to add their insights.

Example:

For a deeper conversation: try the Collaboration Cards

Discuss this with someone who knows you well

How do your strengths show up to support collaboration?

What are the challenges you consistently come across?

What can you try to move things forwards?

A large grey arrow-shaped box pointing to the right, intended for writing answers to the reflection questions.